NC State’s University Sustainability Office seeks a creative, motivated graphic design intern to join its team. As graphic design intern, you’ll support the University Sustainability Office and Energy Management Office in their efforts to promote NC State’s sustainability activities, actions and achievements. Channel your creativity into a cause that matters.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Work with a team to translate ideas into compelling visual concepts
- Design and produce materials in a wide variety of mediums including print (brochures, reports, flyers, advertisements, posters, annual report), web, promotional items (t-shirts, pens, magnets), billboards and video
- Assist in brand and logo development

REQUIREMENTS

You’re a student.
We’re looking for a graduate or undergraduate NC State student studying graphic design, art and design, digital media, arts education, public relations, marketing or other related field.

You’re the organized, creative type.
Your designs bring concepts and ideas to life. Your strong verbal and visual communication skills enable you to work with multiple stakeholders to create compelling designs that inspire, inform and engage. You’ll need good organizational skills to handle multiple projects.

You know software.
Proficiency in Adobe Photoshop, Illustrator and InDesign is a must. You should also be comfortable using PCs and Microsoft Office.

You’re interested in sustainability.
As you work, you’ll learn more about sustainability, energy conservation and initiatives that will help sustain NC State for future generations.

Bonus: You edit video.
Working knowledge of video shooting, editing and motion graphics is a plus.

COMPENSATION
$12 per hour. Benefits will not be provided.

COMMITMENT
The internship begins in January 2013. We offer a flexible work schedule of 10-20 hours per week during spring and fall semesters with the possibility of summer work as well. You’ll be based out of our on-campus office in Administrative Building III.
